

Keep the present law regarding the "no call list". If people are interested in additional information regarding banks, they will contact that bank personally. It is so pleasant not having telemarketers interrupting our evenings with products we have no interest in.